

The Literary Logic and the Scientific Logic. An essay on the social science essay

*José Alejandro García Guerrero**

Abstract:

This essay is a brief approach to the problem of distinguishing between scientific and literary studies, especially in the social sciences. The central idea is that the scientific rigor of the writing science is ignored and literary language is often used without taking in consideration the significant consequences that each symbol of the writing has on readers. It is also established that the choice of topics, issues and language has a political identity in the fields of power and privilege.

Key words: essay, social sciences, writing, literature, discourse.
